Subject: Water Tomorrow: IRP Public Workshop Materials Posted Online

This is a reminder of the upcoming Water Tomorrow Public Workshop on Thursday, October 22 at Metropolitan's headquarters. Water Tomorrow is the update of Metropolitan's Integrated Water Resources Plan. The workshop will provide municipalities, businesses, organizations, and the public with the opportunity to learn more about Water Tomorrow and provide input to the planning process.

Water Tomorrow Public Workshop

Date: Thursday, October 22
Time: 9:30 a.m.–3:30 p.m.
Location: Metropolitan Headquarters or webcast

Materials for the workshop, including the agenda and presentation slides, are now posted on the Metropolitan website at <http://www.mwdh2o.com/AboutYourWater/Planning/Planning-Documents/Pages/default.aspx>. Participants can also use the website during the workshop to watch the live webcast or to access a recording afterward.

I hope you will share this information with others as we move forward to consider the policies and actions that will meet the future water demands for Southern California's people, communities, businesses, and the environment.
